THE PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT

Forms part of the Institution, and is under the same Board of Trustees. The students are subject to all the general regulations of the College. It is the purpose of those who have charge of this department, to lay, in each student committed to their charge, the foundation of a solid education. They seek, in all cases, to make good spellers and readers of boys, and to train them thoroughly in English Grammar, Arithmetic, and the elements of the Latin and Greek Languages. As the course of study is arranged with reference to the requirements of the College, this School is the most eligible point at which students can prepare themselves for the College Course. The Terms open and close with those of the College.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

Candidates for matriculation are expected to report themselves to the President or some member of the Faculty, within twenty-four hours after their arrival in Auburn; otherwise, they will not be examined until they give a satisfactory reason for their delay. In all cases, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character are required, and if the applicant is from another College, he must present a certificate of honorable dismissal.

No one will be admitted into the Freshman Class who has not attained to at least fourteen years of age. Applicants for the Freshman Class will be strictly examined on the Preparatory Course of Study, or on studies equivalent to those therein contained. All of the classes will be examined at the close of each term, and those students who are absent at that time will be examined on their return before entering their classes.

PARTIAL COURSE.

The College is open to persons who are not candidates for a degree, and who desire to study in particular departments only. They must possess such previous acquisitions as are required of students before admission, so far as respects the studies they propose to pursue, which fact will be tested by a regular examination; and they must engage in such a number of studies as in the judgment of the Faculty shall be sufficient to occupy their whole time. Students are admitted to the partial course only at the express direction of parents and guardians.

APPARATUS, CABINET AND MUSEUM.

The Apparatus, both Chemical and Philosophical, is already extensive and complete. The cabinet of Minerals is comprehensive and full. The Museum is now being formed, and arrangements are in contemplation which will make this a highly instructive and interesting department. Natural Science, in all its branches, receives particular attention, and every facility in the way of experiment and illustration is afforded the student.

LIBRARY.

This important auxiliary of the Institution is rapidly growing. Many large and valuable contributions have been received during this session. Its shelves have been recently enriched by a number of old and standard works of our language, and we may confidently promise that through the liberality of friends, and the provisions which the Board of Trustees will make, it will, ere long, contain a literary and scientific collection of which the College may well be proud.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The Wirt and Websterian Societies, connected with the College, furnish to the Student fine facilities for improvement. They have ample halls in the College building, and their Libraries already contain many of the most valuable literary productions of the present and past ages. Much interest is felt in these societies by both Students and Faculty.

LOCATION.

Auburn, the seat of East Alabama College, is beautifully situated on the great line of railroad which connects West-Point with Montgomery, and is in one of the healthiest sections in the State. It has fine water, a salubrious atmosphere and a population distinguished for its intelligence and christian character. The College building is one of the largest and finest in the Confederate States, and is admirably adapted, in its internal structure and arrangements, to all the purposes of a College institution.

TO PATRONS.

Reports concerning the scholarship and deportment of students are sent to Parents and Guardians three times during the session. Every student is required to attend morning and evening prayers at the chapel, and Divine service twice each Sabbath in some one of the town churches. Should the Faculty at any time believe that a student is falling into pernicious habits, then, through the President, they shall make known their impressions to the Parent or Guardian, and it shall be their duty, at all times and in the fullest manner, to acquaint Patrons with whatever would, likely, be to them a legitimate cause of anxiety in regard to the welfare of their sons or wards. We cannot too earnestly urge upon Patrons the importance of thorough preparation on the part of those who enter upon a College Course. Their scholarship must always depend largely upon it, and the discouragement which follows a meagre preparation often prompts young men to engage in habits which seriously affect their moral character.
